

Kids

Kids is an extension of the One Minute Game suited for kids to play. It has easier placing rules and the kids each start at their side of the table, giving them more room and time to play.

Preparations — The kids take a seat at a table opposing each other. One kid takes the white, the other kid the black cards. They each shuffle their deck and place it as a drawing pile face down next to them. Each kid draws one card and puts it face up in front of them, touching their side of the table. The two starting cards are placed so that they oppose each other on an imaginary line between the edges of the table.

The game — Both kids look each other in the eye until someone yells „Omiga!“: The game begins. Like in the One Minute Game they both play at the same time. Each kid draws a single card and tries to place it while respecting the Kids placing rules. If a card does not match, the kid throws it face up on her discard pile. When a card is placed or discarded, the next card is drawn immediately. If a kid runs out of cards to draw, she flips the entire discard pile and uses it as the new drawing pile.

Playing field just before the game begins. With a shout of “Omiga!” the kids begin to play,

Placing rules — The Kids placing rules correspond with the ones from the One Minute Game, except for placing condition 3.

The cards are placed so that the coloured semicircles face left and right. When placing a card, it has to connect to at least one own card edge-to-edge and has to match all surrounding cards in colour and shape.

End of game — When a kid build cards up the opposite side of the table, touching the edge, she instantly wins.

The game ends in a draw when both kids have each build cards up to the left and right edge of the table, giving neither the chance to win anymore, or one of them runs out of cards.

Example of a game. Both kids can place a card at the opposite edge of the table. Whoever does so first, wins the game.
